if you are in perfect health but if you have a slight cold, or cough, or if you have inherited weak lungs, or if you are weak and run-down generally—look out!
Once consumption gets a strong foothold it is almost impossible to dislodge it. The time to cure it is at the moment before it starts. If you are weak, build yourself up. Make yourself strong and well that consumption cannot find a foothold. Live with rich, red blood—eat healthy flesh—put your system in perfect order. Don't let it get dead. You may be well as well as not. The following letter from Mrs. Jennie Dingman, of Van Buren, Kalkaska Co., Mich., will tell you how to do it. She says: "Before I took

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

I was hardly able to do my work at all; had pain in my left side and back, and had headache all the time. I tried your medicine and it helped me. Last spring I had a bad cough; got so bad I had to be in bed all the time. My husband thought I had consumption. We thought we would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken one bottle the cough stopped and I have since had no signs of its returning."

Grover Cleveland

From the Brooklyn [N.Y.] Eagle, reprinted in The Springfield [Mass.] Republican, Thursday Feb. 20 1902

A letter from Grover Cleveland was read at the Tilden dinner of the Brooklyn democratic club on Saturday night. Any dinner that prompts any such utterances is more than worth while. Since the author of them closed his second term as president he has been in virtual retirement. He is the Cleveland of old. At such a sacrifice as it is given to few to make he held his party in navigable waters as long as the helm was in his hands. The price he paid was prodigal. It included popularity. It included almost all he had of it. For courage of conviction, for fidelity to principle, for love of country more cannot be paid by those who hold life in reserve. It is certain that had even life itself been exacted the penalty would have been conceded. These are not heroics. They make no more of what was done than what was done. To make less of it by a hair's breadth can serve no purpose that will not surely miscarry. "Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small; though with patience he stands waiting, with exactness grinds he all." Thick atmospheres do not endure forever and clouds are blown away. The grinding may have been invisible, but it has been going on continuously. Sooner or later Mr. Cleveland will come to his own again. Sooner or later he will be regarded by his countrymen as an American who was for America and to whom time tardily made amends. And it now promises to be sooner rather than later.

In the consciousness that much has been done in the direction of good government by the present Administration, and submitting its record to the fair inspection of my countrymen, I endorse the platform thus presented, with the determination that, if I am again called to the Chief Magistracy, there shall be a continuance of devoted endeavor to advance the interests of the entire country.

Our scale of federal taxation and its consequences largely engross at this time the attention of our citizens, and the people are soberly considering the necessity of measures of relief. Our Government is the creation of the people, established to carry out their designs and accomplish their good. It was founded on justice, and was made for a free, intelligent and virtuous people. It is only useful when within their control, and only serves them well when regulated and guided by their constant touch. It is a free Government because it guarantees to every American citizen the unrestricted personal use and enjoyment of all the reward of his toil and of all his income, except, what may be his fair contribution to necessary public expense. Therefore it is not only the right, but the duty of a free people, in the enforcement of this guaranty, to insist that such expense should be strictly limited to the actual public needs. It seems perfectly clear that when the Government, this instrumentality created and maintained by the people to do their bidding, turns upon them, and through an utter perversion of its powers, extorts from their labor and capital tribute largely in excess of public necessities, the creature has rebelled against the creator and the masters are robbed by their servants.

The cost of the Government must continue to be met by tariff duties collected at our custom-houses upon imported goods and by internal revenue taxes assessed upon spirituous and malt liquors, tobacco and oleomargarine. I suppose it is needless to explain that all these duties and assessments are added to the price of the articles upon which they are levied, and thus become a tax upon all those who buy these articles for use and consumption. I suppose, too, it is well understood that the effect of this tariff taxation is not limited to the consumers of imported articles, but that the duties imposed upon such articles permit a corresponding increase in price to be laid upon domestic productions of the same

In the consciousness that much has been done in the direction of good government by the present Administration, and submitting its record to the fair inspection of my countrymen, I indorse the platform thus presented, with the determination that, if I am again called to the Chief Magistracy, there shall be a continuance of devoted endeavor to advance the interests of the entire country.

Our scale of federal taxation and its consequences largely engross at this time the attention of our citizens, and the people are soberly considering the necessity of measures of relief. Our Government is the creation of the people, established to carry out their designs and accomplish their good. It was founded on justice, and was made for a free, intelligent and virtuous people. It is only useful when within their control, and only serves them well when regulated and guided by their constant touch. It is a free Government because it guarantees to every American citizen the unrestricted personal use and enjoyment of all the reward of his toil and of all his income, except, what may be his fair contribution to necessary public expense. The cost of the Government must continue to be met by tariff duties collected at our custom-houses upon imported goods and by internal revenue taxes assessed upon spirituous and malt liquors, tobacco and oleomargarine. I suppose it is needless to explain that all these duties and assessments are added to the price of the articles upon which they are levied, and thus become a tax upon all those who buy these articles for use and consumption. I suppose, too, it is well understood that the effect of this tariff taxation is not limited to the consumers of imported articles, but that the duties imposed upon such articles permit a corresponding increase in price to be laid upon domestic productions of the same kind; which increase, paid by all our people as consumers of home productions and entering every American home, constitutes a form of taxation as certain and as inevitable as though the amount was annually paid into the hand of the tax-gatherer. These results are inseparable from the plan we have adopted for the collection of our revenue by tariff duties. They are not mentioned to discredit the system, but by way of preface to the statement that every million of dollars collected at our custom-houses for duties upon imported articles, and paid into the public treasury, represent many millions more, which, though never reaching the national Treasury, are paid by our citizens as the increased cost of domestic productions resulting from our tariff laws.

In these circumstances, and in view of this necessary effect of the operation of our plan for raising revenue, the absolute duty of limiting the rate of tariff charges to the necessities of a frugal and economical administration of the Government, seems to be perfectly plain. The continuance, upon a pretext of meeting public expenditures of such a scale of tariff taxation as draws from the sustenance of the people a sum largely in excess of public needs, is surely something which, under a government based upon justice, and which finds its strength and usefulness in the faith and trust of the people, ought not to be tolerated. # BATTLE-AX GLEASON DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS CLUB.

Patrick Jerome Gleason, former Mayor of Long Island City, died suddenly last night in his apartment in the Battle Ax clubhouse, the house in which he planned and from which he directed his famous campaigns. Death was due solely to heart failure.

Mr. Gleason was first taken ill on May 11. On that day he complained that his heart, which had been alarmingly weak the last ten years, was weaker than ever. His pulse was found to be 32.

Dr. Neil O. Fitch was summoned and he ordered Mr. Gleason to bed at once. Mr. Gleason obeyed then, but on Wednesday, against the advice of his physician, he left his bed, and, with his pulse still as low as on the day he fell ill, came to Manhattan and attended a meeting of the Board of Public Improvements. He went to this meeting in the interest of the Woodside Water Company.

Gleason came to New York again on Thursday. When he returned to his rooms in the Battle-Ax clubhouse, which is situated at No. 112 Front street, Long Island City, he collapsed.

That visit to Manhattan, it is believed, cost Mr. Gleason his life.

Dr. Fitch believes that he would have been able to pull Mr. Gleason through had his patient not disobeyed him.

Many times during the last ten years Gleason's pulse had fallen to 32. It was stated last night that since 1890 his pulse was never higher than 42.

At 7 o'clock last night Gleason's condition became so alarming that Father McGowan, of Dutch Kills, was called to administer the last rites of the Church. At 10:30 o'clock Mr. Gleason died.

At his bedside at the time were his seventeen-year-old daughter, Jessie, his faithful valet, Hugh McFarney, his counsel and lifetime friend, Thomas P. Burke, and Dr. Fitch and two nurses.

The funeral arrangements will be made this morning.

CLEVELAND'S HOME IS QUARANTINED; CHILD ILL.

Princeton, N. J., May 20.—Esther Cleveland, the seven-year-old daughter of former President Grover Cleveland, is ill with diphtheria at Westlands, Mr. Cleveland's home here. The child was taken ill on Friday. The family kept the illness secret until to-day, when it was rumored that she was seriously ill.

Dr. J. H. Wickoff, the family physician of the Clevelands, said to-night: "It is true that Esther Cleveland is confined to the house with diphtheria. The attack is not very serious, and I do not consider the child in any imminent danger."

Among the neighbors of the Clevelands is Professor John H. Finley, of the Department of Politics, who was formerly President of Knox College. Margaret, the five-year-old daughter of Professor Finley, recently returned with her mother from a visit to New York. Shortly after her return she was taken ill with diphtheria, but was supposed to be recovering, when a change for the worse took place and the child died Sunday morning.

The Cleveland children have been the schoolmates of the Finley child.

The health authorities of the village believe that Esther Cleveland caught the disease from Margaret Finley. The other Finley children are also ill, but the other Cleveland children, Ruth, Marion and Richard, have developed no symptoms of the disease and Dr. Wickoff pronounces them in excellent health.

On account of the mild nature of her illness the Cleveland residence was not put under quarantine until to-day, when the step seemed advisable in view of the number of children living near.

Mr. Cleveland left Princeton a little over a week ago on a ten days' fishing trip to Ohio but he is expected to return home to-morrow.

The Board of Health to-day ordered Miss Fine's private school closed. The school has about thirty pupils, boys and girls, chiefly children of the University profes-

GROVER CLEVELAND WATCHES OVER SICK CHILD.

Princeton, N. J., May 21.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland arrived here late this afternoon from New York. He had been on a ten days' fishing trip to Middle Bass Island, near Toledo, and appeared to be in excellent health.

The condition of Esther Cleveland, who is ill with diphtheria, impelled Mrs. Cleveland to telegraph to her husband to return. She was unable to meet him at the station and he was driven at once to his home, "Westland."

The physician in attendance at the Cleveland home to-day stated that there was no change in the young patient's condition. He said he expected an improvement hourly.

the strike had spread to large on the Pacific coast, where war vessels are under construction, and is expected that Eastern yards having ships to build also will be affected.

The War Department was informed that the strike was likely to stop work on the army transports Egbert and Rosecrans, now repairing on the Pacific coast.

Secretary Root asked the Navy Department to assist in forwarding the work
pending the tie-up, and Acting Secretary
Hackett, of the Navy, promised co-operation.

To-day's reports show that only three railroads in the United States are now affected by the strike—namely, the Central Vermont, Lehigh Valley and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

Agreements in West.

Practically, all the trouble between Kansas
City and the Pacific coast has been adjusted.
At Kansas City about six hundred men are out, but a few firms have signed the agreements.

About 2,000 men are out in Boston. Many men are out in Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton and Alliance, Ohio. In Cincinnati a dozen firms have made the concessions since Saturday and about 3,000 men are out. Alliance reports a complete tie-up with 500 men striking. Only a few men are out in Cleveland, practically a general settlement having been effected there.

Favorable reports come from the South.
All the establishments employing machinists
in Norfolk, Va., have signed agreements.
In Wilmington, Del., four of the largest firms have signed agreements.

The Naugatuck Valley, in Connecticut, is generally affected. All are out at Bridge

CLEVELAND'S FORGOTTEN FIGHT

When it Cost Him Much To Make It.

[From the Baltimore News.]

"We all want good money," said Mr McKinley in one of his southern speeches, and he could say it without a particle of fear that any sentiment for free silver would stand in the way of the applause which his auditors give him. He is having an extremely good time on his tour, and reaping the benefit of all the good feeling and good humor which go with a time of general prosperity, and go to the man who, as head of the government is popularly identified with that prosperity. As to opposition to the gold standard—the firm establishment and preservation of which was the exclusive issue in Mr McKinley's first successful campaign and a leading issue in his second—the opposition has now melted into thin air. It is becoming somewhat difficult to realize that it ever was formidable, so rapidly do events move nowadays.

But people who have memories will recall, when they read of Mr McKinley's smooth words and his smiling audiences, that there is another man—sitting in retirement at Princeton, and forgotten by too many of the gaping thousands who are greeting the president—who "wanted good money" and insisted that the country should have it, at a time when we did not "all want good money." That was a time when Mr McKinley himself not only did not "want good money," but went out of his way in a public speech to attack President Cleveland because he had "dishonored" one of our American metals. When Grover Cleveland was fighting the battle of sound money against tremendous odds, and saved the monetary standard of the nation, and incurred the odium of increasing the public debt for the purpose, and stood like a stone wall against every attempt to undermine the integrity of our currency, Mr McKinley was waiting to see which way the wind would finally blow strongest. He kept on waiting to the very last moment, and only when it was perfectly clear that the battle was bound to be on the line of an uncompromising attack on the gold standard by the democrats and an uncompromising defense of it by the republicans did he let it be known where he stood in the great contest of 1896.

Grover Cleveland is the man to whom the preservation of the country's currency system is due. He was the man who held the fort in the days of darkness and difficulty and distress. It is to him, more than to any other one man, or any other 50 men, that we owe the conditions which have made the present revival of prosperity possible. The financial crash of 1893, coming at the very beginning of his administration, was too tremendous a blow for even his extraordinary hold on the American people to stand against. He lost the support of his party, which, until the hard times came, had stood by him in spite of his unflinching opposition to the bulk of it on the money issue; but he had held on long enough to save the country from the abyss of repudiation. In due course of time—just as was the case of the panic of 1873—the country recovered from the effects of the 1893 panic; and now comes this fair-weather friend of sound money, this man who didn't know his own mind about it until public sentiment had spoken out in thundering tones, and smilingly accepts the applause which the unthinking give him, but which those who know reserve for the sturdy old-time democrat at Princeton.

DEATH OF GEN JOHN BIDWELL, Prohibition Candidate for President in 1892.

A dispatch to the San Francisco Call from Chico, Cal., announces the death of Gen John Bidwell. Gen Bidwell was the prohibition candidate for president in 1892. John Bidwell was born August 5, 1819, in Chautauqua county, N. Y., and was educated in Ohio. He went to California in 1841 and was employed as aid-de-camp and interpreter by the Mexican governor, Micheltorena, until the revolt of 1844-5, when the governor was expelled and California was made American soil. When Fremont appeared, Bidwell joined his forces and was appointed magistrate of the district of San Luis Rey. In 1849 he was a member of the first state constitutional convention, and was elected state senator in 1850. Gen Bidwell commanded a California brigade in the war and fairly won his military title. He was sent to Congress as a republican in 1864 and served one term. In 1875 he ran for governor of California on an anti-monopoly ticket, and was defeated. Later he ran for the same office as a prohibitionist, and then in 1892 for the presidency.

MR CLEVELAND GOES A-FISHING.

Ex-President and Mrs Grover Cleveland left Princeton, N. J., yesterday for New York, where Mr Cleveland joined Col Daniel Lamont and E. C. Benedict, with whom he started last evening for Florida on a pleasure trip. It has been learned that the party will spend about three weeks fishing along the Florida coast. Soon after Mr Cleveland returns to Princeton he will deliver his two lectures before the university students. Mrs Cleveland will return from New York to-day.

SPRINGFIELD, FRIDAY, APR. 19, 1901.

8800,000 to the Central trust company, and has Mr Greeley advised you will continue to be the "T branch," as the new project six city lots on that street, to Twenty-fourth street, west of Seventh avenue, and now occupied by dwelling-houses. The building to be put up will cost several hundred thousand dollars, and is not likely to be ready for some 18 months; the association will meantime stay in the old quarters. This edifice, though without architectural beauty, is well built, roomy and convenient, largely occupied in its upper floors by artists' studios, and one of the best-known bookstores, especially for old books, has long been established there.

When Senator Ellsworth moved to strike out the enacting clause of the canal improvement bill, in the Albany Legislature, Wednesday, he closed his remarks by saying, "To-day, I believe, practically ends the canal question for this state." There were indications of much talk against the motion, and the mocking voice of Senator Raines was heard, moving that "in the case of these funeral orations the five-minute rule be waived." Senator Hill retorted, with much earnestness, "Take care that it is not the funeral of the party that votes against canal improvement." Mr Hill was one of two republicans who joined 14 democrats in voting in opposition to a motion by Mr McCarren, to amend the bill so as to appropriate $62,000,000 instead of $26,000,000,—for the defeat of that amendment was the form in which the cause was lost. The 31 affirmative votes were all republicans. Something of a non-sequitur was the decision of the Assembly committee on rules, Wednesday evening, that as there was to be no canal legislation it was not feasible to attempt anything in

RUTH CLEVELAND AND MARK TWAIN.

[From the Chicago Record-Herald's Washington Letter.]

Early in the administration of President Cleveland, Consul-General Mason at Frankfort, who is generally considered the best man in the service, was notified that his resignation was expected, and that a Mr Rapp of Illinois was to be his successor. He was packing up his goods when Mark Twain happened around that way and visited the consulate. Being informed of the situation the latter wrote a letter to Ruth Cleveland, the baby daughter of the president, telling her that he could not interfere in matters of patronage, because he was a mugwump, but he considered it a shame that a man of experience and ability like Consul-General Mason should be turned out of office simply because some democrat who knew nothing about its duties wanted the place. He said that he was acquainted with a great many consuls, and that Capt Mason was the best he had ever known, and if her father ever consulted her about the consular service he suggested that she advise him not to disturb good men merely to give places for politicians.

About a month later Mr Clemens received a little note in President Cleveland's handwriting, in which Miss Ruth Cleveland presented her compliments to Mark Twain, thanked him for calling attention to the threatened removal of Consul Mason, and said that if he knew of any similar cases the president would be glad to hear from him. Consul-General Mason is still in the service, and has since been promoted to Berlin.

CLEVELAND BUYS ALL THE SHOT IN NORFOLK.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 17.—Charles Keidel, of Washington, secretary of the Back Bay Gunning Club, at which ex-President Cleveland is a guest, returned to Norfolk from the marshes to-day. He stated that the Cleveland party killed two hundred ducks and thirty geese on Friday, and that Mr. Cleveland did more than his share of the slaughter. Mr. Cleveland's health has improved since he arrived here. The President and his party have bought all the shot in Norfolk.

JOURNAL'S BILL IS IN BOTH HOUSES.

Albany, Feb 17.—The Journal's Three Platoon Police bill, amended so as to conform with the wishes of the rank and file, was re-introduced in Senate and Assembly to-night. Senator Sullivan handed it in in the Upper House and Assemblyman Ullmann presented it in the lower branch. The amendment is made Section 2, and reads thus: It shall be the duty of each patrolman and roundsman to perform not to exceed GLASTONBURY.

Funeral of Samuel J. Wright—Personal and Other Notes.

The funeral of Samuel F. Wright, who died Thursday night, was held from the residence, Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, many of whom were present. Daskam Lodge, F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a member, had charge at the interment, which was at St. George's Cemetery. The floral pieces included a pillow from Daskam Lodge and a pillow from the G. A. R.

CITY AND STATE PERSONALS.

Charles L. Burnham, son of ex-Alderman Ralph Burnham, has become associated with Lawyer Cleveland, who was formerly connected with the celebrated law firm of Evarts, Beaman & Choate of New York. Mr. Burnham is a graduate of Trinity in the class of '98. He has just graduated from the Yale Law School. Last winter he passed his law examination and was admitted to the New York bar. His association with Mr. Cleveland will give Mr. Burnham an excellent start in the practice of his profession, and his Hartford friends will be delighted to hear of his success.

WORKS OF ART.

When it comes to collecting an import duty of 20 per cent. on a statue which is a work of art, and a duty of 50 per cent. on one which is only a "manufacture of marble," it is evidently necessary to seek some more precise definition of a work of art than was required when the distinction concerned only the seller and the buyer of the statue. Accordingly the question has come up for judicial determination before the United States Circuit Court at New York, where Judge Coxe discussed the question and reversed the findings of the collector of the port and the board of general appraisers.

The case in question arose over the

My Dear Sir: I was gratified to get your letter of Oct 17th 1901, and its contents have excited my most interested attention. You may be certain that I will aid, to the extent of my ability, our laborious enterprise of far-reaching beneficence. I have written a number of our family, including "prosperitas." Some of them possess liberal fortunes, and will patronize that so near to their interests and appetitive to rational ambition.

Louise Dexter Cleveland, who resided #14, is my younger daughter, born July 6th 1888. She is a beautiful girl, well grown, with Indian red hair and brown eyes. Her head is compact, round, and ideally beautiful. She possesses a mind of extraordinary vigor, and histrionic talent of rare eminence. My elder daughter (I have but two children) was born Sept. 14th 1882, she is named Trezerant Cleveland. Her talents are remarkable in a general way, with a penchant for literature. She has brown hair blue eyes, classical face, and an elegant head. She is a most beautiful. Your Cousin affectionately, Charles D. Cleveland
